

Why Buy a Crayton Home?

Buying a new home is one of the most important decisions you will make in your lifetime. You should know your builder. Sure, new homes are inspected by building inspectors. But these are minimum standards. Do you really want a new home built to minimum standards? We are confident the more you know about Crayton and Company, the more you will understand there is no place like a Crayton home.

Community

Our homes are built in well thought-out neighborhoods. Lots are a little bit wider and deeper, and streets are a bit wider than comparable communities. Common areas are well maintained by owners associations with realistic dues structures. We often sponsor neighborhood get-togethers so you can meet your new neighbors. These things you will not notice until your new community is built out. Choose the wrong community, and you will notice how crowded you feel. Choose a Crayton community, and you will notice you have a bit more elbow room and a very pleasant streetscape.

Exterior

Notice how far back from the street our homes sit. This allows two cars to be parked in the drive without having the tail end of the second car hanging out over the sidewalk or in the street. Now look at the exterior of your new home. Notice things like palladium windows, brick, stone or Cedar Impression accents, large covered entryways and brick pavers, etc. Also notice how much sod comes with a new Crayton yard.

Interior

As you enter through the front door the first thing you will see is our keyless entry system which gives you convenience and added security. The deadbolt actually penetrates further into the stud than most deadbolts. If you go for a quick walk or jog, no need to bring cumbersome keys. Should someone need to enter your home while you are away, simply give them a code which can be easily changed. Now notice things like varying interior door designs and hardware, chair rail, painted accent walls, privacy windows to light baths and walk-in closets and rounded sheetrock corners. Look in the garage and notice the service door. Most of our homes have garage windows and many even have painted garage floors. Last but not least, many of our homes are wi-fi ready, complete with a wireless router.
